EMPHATIC IN SPEECH.

Gen. Harrison Could Be Tender or In-The quality of Benjamin Harrison's eloquence was not shown simply in his speeches on great questions; two homely specimens will be recalled, which, one in pathos and the other in indignation, rank among the best. When, in 1892, the people in Indianapolis had turned out by thousands to pay the last honors to Mrs. Harrison, her husband, before taking the return train to Washington, gave this brief card to the local press: "My Dear Old Friends and Neighbors:

"I cannot leave you without saying that the tender and gracious sympathy which you have today shown for me and for my children, and much more, the touching evidence you have given of your love for the dear wife and mother, have deeply moved our hearts. We yearn to tarry with you and to rest near the hallowed spot where your loving hands have laid our dead, but the little grandchildren watch in wondering silence for our return and need our care, and some public business will not longer wait upon my sorrow.

"May a gracious God keep and bless you all. Most gratefully yours,

"BENJAMIN HARRISON."

In 1878, when his father's newly filled grave was rifled, General Harrison was untiring in his pursuit of the vandals till he traced the body to a medical college, whose aculty endeavored to shield themselves by pretending that they had no idea how it came there. Harrison's scathing reply closed with these words: "Your janitor denied that it lay upon carotid artery, the thread with which it was ligatured, the injected veins, prove him a liar. Who made that incision and injected that body gentlemen of the faculty? The surgeons who examined the work say it was no bungler. While he lay upon your table, the long white beard, which the hands of infant grandchildren had often stroked in love, was rudely shorn from his ege that an unseen and an unknown man

How Gen. Harrison came to toin the republican party against his own free will ne once described to a visitor. "It was right after Fremont was nominated," said he, "and while I was practicing law with he, "and while I was practicing law with Mr. Waliace. We were in our office in an upstairs room, where the Indianapolis News building now stands, when Mr. Roberts, who used to keep a drug store there, and another man whose name I for-get, came running in and told us that Fremont was nominated, and that they wer way, and that I must come down and ad away, and that I must come down and address it. I said I couldn't think of such a thing; that I had nothing to say and was not prepared. They insisted that I could make a good enough speech without any preparation, and that I must come. I said that I wasn't sure about this Fremont business, anyhow, and refused point blank They carried me bodily down stairs, out into the street, and, without ever letting my feet touch the ground, took me over to where the meeting was to be held and set me upon a packing box before a crowd of three or four hundred persons. Of course,

I had to talk then. That was my initiation into the republican party."

Harrison was so devout a church member that many persons have refused to be-lieve that he had ever been profane. Only one instance is recalled, and that is sub-stantiated, like a corresponding incident stantiated, like a corresponding incident in George Washington's career, by the testimony of ear-witnesses. It was in the Atlanta campaign in 1864, when, as colonel of the 70th Indiana Volunteers, he took a conspicuous part in the battle of Peach Tree creek. The regiment was lying under cover with strict orders to hold its fire until the command was given. One man, too excited and nervous to lie still sprang up excited and nervous to lie still, sprang us and fired. Col. Harrison seized his blanke which was done up in a roll fastened with a strap, and, jumping up, hurled it at the excitable soldier, at the same time shouting out a loud hearty, rotund "Damn!" The blanket struck the soldier full in the The blanket struck the soldier full in the face, and either that or the unexpectedness of the profane word from his exemplary colonel laid him flat on his back, ready to oney orders for the rest of the campaign. Profanity seemed to be in the air that day, for General Hooker, riding down the lines after the fight, selzed the young colonel's hand and wrung it as he shouted: "Harrison, by G., I'll make you a brigadier general for this!"

And he was as good as his more

The Philadelphia Press of today says: Albert L. He said that he would spend $15,000,000 in Philadelphia if a franchise were given him on the city's streets and would also give in return for the privilege three-cent fares to the public. He said he did not propose to resort to either blackmail or bribery, or spend one-cent to secure a franchise. He proposed to put an army of men in the city, scattered through all the wards, to arouse public sentiment in favor of three-cent fares. He expects a fight in Philadelphia and if the fight is lost the line between this city and New York will be built at any rate.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE CENTRAL LABOR UNION

DAY VIGILANCE COMMITTEE. The Late Col. Vinal Honored - Interesting Report of Attorney

The Anti-Saloon League of the District of Columbia held its regular semi-monthly neeting last evening at No. 623 Louisiana avenue, with President J. L. Ewin in the chair. In honor to the memory of the late Col. John F. Vinal, one of the most active members of the league, a beautiful display of white carnations had been arranged upon a stand immediately in front of the president's desk. After prayer by the chaplain, Dr. W. H. Brooks, Mr. Ewin brought up the matter of the work done by special committee on inauguration day. He stated that a vigilance committee of 100 had been appointed to patrol the streets during the pointed to patrol the streets during the time when the city was crowded with visitors on account of the inauguration, and that this committee had done faithful work, being divided into fifteen sections and covering the entire city. Violations of the law with regard to Sunday closing and midnight closing were thus reduced to a minimum. In several of the sections allotted everything was found closed. In one instance 100 saloons were visited and only four violations were discovered. Sevonly four violations were discovered. Several guilty parties throughout the city were located and reported, complaints have been lodged against them and the cases will be vigorously prosecuted. The police had brought charges in several instances.

In response to a recommendation recently addressed to the national organization, known as the American Anti-Saloon League, a communication was submitted and read stating that Congress had been urged to prohibit the operation of saloons in the vicinity of army posts, but the matter had been found to be one which must be covered by state laws.

The Late Col. Vinal.

Memorial services in honor of the late Colonel Vinal were then conducted. Mr. A. L. Swartwout, on behalf of the executive committee, submitted a minute which was placed on the records, reciting, among other things, that "Colonel Vinal was an enthusiastic, constant and vigorous worker in the Anti-Saloon League, having much to do with several of the lines of this work, specially noteworthy perhaps the legisla-tive and mass meeting committees. He was willing and earnest in whatever place miss him from the meetings of the league, where he was so constant an attendant. All who knew him can bear witness to his idelity, and that his voice uttered no uncertain sound where a temperance matter or clean living was involved. The Anti-Sa-loon League of the District of Columbia ereby attests the faithful services of Colonel Vinal in its ranks, and extends to the bereaved widow, other relatives and friends its cordial sympathy and condo-

Dr. Brooks delivered an eulogistic address upon the deceased and was followed by Messrs. Kellar, Suter, Canfield, Edson, Hobbs and a number of others, who em-phasized in their speeches the faithfulness, the zeal, the persistent effort and the personal worth of Col. Vinal.

Proceedings Against Offenders. An interesting report concerning the progress of legal proceedings against the offending saloon keepers was made by Attorney Shoemaker, who stated that fifteen complaints had been made as to violation of the Sunday law on March 3. While the presence of the members of the vigilance committee all over the city had had a most wholesome effect in checking the il-legal sale of liquor, there had been quite legal sale of liquor, there had been quite a number of cases in which the law was violated in a rather quiet way, particu-larly in hotels, where there was greater opportunity for evasion. Several flagrant cases were cited. A discussion followed Mr. Shoemaker's report. The attorney cited one particularly sad case, where four low saloon on the avenue and taken to the police station, one girl fifteen years of age being so drunk that an officer wa compelled to carry her on his back.

Secretary Shipe Resigns. Mr. Robert I. Carr was made a sustaining member of the league. The resignation of Mr. H. W. Shipe, recording secretary, was read and accepted, the election of his successor being deferred until the next meeting. A number of changes in the constitution proposed by Mr. Canfield were referred to the executive committee. The report of the finance committee was sub litted and adopted, and the meeting ad-

GOOD WORK OF THE INAUGURATION PROCEEDINGS OF WEEKLY MEET-ING HELD LAST NIGHT. Long-Standing Beer Boycott Raised-Additional Bodies Admitted to MemBership.

The weekly meeting of the Central Labor Union was held last evening at Typographical Temple. President James L. Feeney presided and John Hy Brinkman was sec retary. There was a large attendance of delegates, representatives from thirty-eight of the forty-six allied organizations being present. A communication was read from the recently organized Mosafc, Granite and Marble Tile Rubbers' Union, No. 8902, stating that at a meeting of the organization held last Thursday evening it was determined that eight hours should constitute a day's work for the membership from that date. The action of the union was indorsed by the central body, also the rate of wages adopted and the usual rate for overtime. A letter was read from Charles E. Cave f the Upper Iowa University, Fayette, Iowa, requesting an answer to the questions: Do illiterate foreigners make good trade unionists? Do you favor the educational test?

The questions were referred to a committee composed of Milford Spohn, John H. Lorch and John H. Brinkman, who were instructed to draw up a reply, the same to be submitted to the central body for approval prior to being forwarded.

Charles W. Winslow, secretary pro tem., reported the proceedings of the last meet-ing of the building trades section, which were indorsed. The report states that the section was fully organized by the appointment of a grievance committee, com-posed of Milford Spohn, C. W. Winslow and Moses Peyton, and as a contract committee, Charles med. J. T. Neldomanski. Charles McGowan, G. Hagaman and It was reported that mechanics employed at the Soldiers' Home are working nine hours a day, in alleged violation of law, and the secretary was directed to bring the matter to the attention of those in charge at that institution and request that in future the federal eight-hour law be com plied with. Beer Boycott Raised.

The contract committee reported that a representative of an Alexandria brewery ecently agreed to employ union labor on all work constructed by him in this city, which ends a long-pending grievance of the Central Labor Union. Upon the recommendation of the committee the product of the brewery was removed from the "unfair list" and the secretary was directed to so inform the central bodies of Norfolk, Newport News and Richmond.

The legislative committee was instructed to prepare a bill, to be presented to the next session of Congress, which will provide for the placing of temporary floors in buildings constructed by the government to protect the workmen from injury.

It was announced that Carriage and Wagon Builders' Union, No. 1, which was organized about two years ago, and which has been allied with the Central Labor Union as an independent body, was recently chartered by the International Union of Carriage and Wagon Builders as Local Union No. 72. Since the union was organized an organization formerly known as Carriage and Wagon, Makers' Assembly, 3456, Knights of Labor, has held the charter as Local Union, No. 29. This organization, it is said, was not recognized by the Central Labor Union and the allied trades as a bona fide union, which finally resulted in the revocation of its charter. The last Labor day excursion committee ubmitted a final report, showing a net receipt of $432.46.

Credentials were favorably reported and delegates obligated from the Amalgamated Sheet Metal Workers, Local Union, No 102: United Association Journeymen Plumb ers and Gas Fitters, Local Union No. 8, and Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employes, Division No. 161.

CTATMS ACATEST NO The State Department Giving Them Special Attention.

The Department of State is giving renewed attention to the settlement of the claims against the government of Morocco. The claim of Marcus Ezagui, who was murdered by a mob at Fez in June last, has been adjusted by the payment, by direct orders of the Sultan of Morocco, of $5,000, demanded by the government of the United States. But there are other claims equally meritorious which have not been partment of State gave these consideration, all efforts on the part of Mr. Gummere. the consul general at Tangler, to adjust them having proved ineffective. Under these circumstances a special mis-sion, following in this respect the practice of other governments, seemed necessary, Instructions to this end were today sent to Mr. Gunmere, as well as a further instruc-tion to demand an apology for an apparent discourtesy on the part of the grand vizier and the minister of foreign affairs in at-tempting to defeat the purpose of the De-partment of State in dispatching a special mission to Morocco City.

With this purpose in mind, the Navy Department was called upon last fall by the Department of State to provide a warship to convey Consul General Gummer to a point as near Morocco City as could be reached by water. It was be sufficiently impressive in character to serve the purpose. Several auxiliary cruis-ers, training ships and gunboats have been in the neighborhood of Tangier since last November, when the request was made, but none of these was regarded as sufficiently formidable in type to command respect, so that the time has run on until now, when the crack armored cruiser New rapidly nearing Gibraltar, with every pros-pect of reaching Tangler by the end of this week. She will take Mr. Gummere aboard and convey him to Mazargan, where the consul general will disembark and go York will remain at Mazargan under his orders until some sort of a settlement is reached, and Mr. Gummere has been no-

SITE FOR GRANT STATUE.

Action of the Commission Was Not It appears that the action of the Grant memorial commission in selecting the site of the President's stables, just south of the Department of State, as the site for the proposed statue or memorial to General Grant was not final and has given way to the numerous criticisms against that site. The question of a location for the memorial is being reconsidered, with a serious disposition to place stoff some other location where it will be more accessible and tion where it will be more accessible and show to better advantage.

Two sites are under consideration either of which, it is contended, would be better than the stable site. One of these is directly south of the White House at the north edge of the ellipse in the old White Lot. The other is further south in the same reservation at either the B or 17th street front on a him with the proposed boulevard through the mall connecting the Botanical Gardens with the proposed Memorial bridge over the Potomac at the foot of New York are not a mimorfant bearing in the matter of the selection of a site, as what might be a good location for a stitutue might be entirely inappropriated for a memorial in the form of an arch.
